NEWS OF THE WEEK. MICHIGAN.

A terrific boiler explosion, killing four men and totally wrecking eight boilers, occurred at 4:30 o'clock Sunday morning at Hamilton & McClure's mill, on the Saginaw river. The killed were Mike Sebo, a widower with two children, Joseph Sebo, his brother, N. Carpen-ter and Blanchert, all young Frenchmen, employed at the mill, the last three single. There were nine boilers ranged side by side, four in one battery and five in the other. The first explosion is supposed to have taken place in the onttery of four caused by low water, as they were blown in all directions with terrific force, while the first four of the other battery were only torn apart and the fifth simply thrown out of its bed. The loss, including that of shutting down the mill at this time, is

AN OVER-READY EXAMINER.-Mr. lawyer required two, so seeing Judge Wingfield (on his way to Bedford,) goup the stairs of the Norval House, I accosted him: 'Good evening, Judge, I am glad to see you, sir.' 'Ah!' said Judge Wingfield turning around, as beautiful objects in water under the microscope. They are marvelously tenacious of life. You may dry them to a powder, and keep them a year, or even two years, in your cabinet, and when again put into the water they will in the course of an hour or two good and as sound as a—a pineapple, revive and be found whirling about and, by George! as brusque: 'Ah! good with their accustomed vigor. evening, sir. What can I do for you, sir? 'Ahem! I—I have one certificate, and shall be very glad if you will examine me—that—. 'All right, young man. Come into the parlor. One time is as good as another.' My heart darted down into the corner of my boxtoes, and wildly longing for further opportunity to 'cram,' I stammered, Oh, another time will answer for me, Judge, I merely mentioned—ah!—next week, sir!—ah!—the train leaves in half an honr, sir, and—ah!—' 'Oh, come on, sir,' said the Judge, carelessly, but imperatively. GITTEAU'S TRIAL.

Gitteau was brought before the District criminal court at Washington on the 14th for trial, Judge Cox on the bench. The prisoner looked to be in better health and spirits than at the settle in America stating that before the close time of his arraignment. His brother from Boston, his sister from Chicago, and several of his old-time friends, were in the court room, and Gitteau evidently felt strong and hopeful, albeit he had that same furtive, uneasy manner.

> nounced a readiness to go on with the case, Mr. Robinson, for the defense, asked for a continuance, giving as a reason for the request the statement that eminent counsel could be obtained to conduct the defense if time were given. Judge Cox decided that the case must go on, but promised that when the evidence for the prosecution should all be in he would give the defense time for preparation. Five jurors were secured, many being rejected. The names and occupations of those sworn in are as follows: John P. Harlin, restaurant keeper; Fred. W. Branderberg, cigar maker; Chas. G. Stewart, flour and feed dealer; Henry J. Bright, retired from business; Thos. H. Langley,

During these proceedings Gitteau took an active part. The motion of Robinson for a continuance was a surprise to Scoville and Gitteau. The lawyer pretested that he should be consulted in matters of such importance; and the prisoner jumped up several times and addressed the court saying ing that he desired to be heard in his own behalf; that he did not want Robinson in the case at all; did not want him to make any more speeches; but wanted him to get out of the case altogether.

Gitteau in one of his harangues informed the court that he would like to make a speech to-morrow morning, but he was ordered by the court to take his seat. He tken passed the manuscript of his speech to a newspaper reporter, but before the latter could leave the court room Scoville call-ed him back and compelled him to return it. This raised the anger of the prisoner, who excitedly declared he was not under the control of his counsel; that he was a lawyer and knew the law himself; that when he wanted help he would ask for it, and that he desired his speech to be published for the purpose of influencing public opinion.

He was again silenced by the court. Gitteau's speech which he wanted to deliver was a rehash of the matter published by him heretofore-that Garfield was a good man but did not make good use of official patronage, and that he (Gitteau) was an instrument of the Lord's to remove him; that not being a good marksman he did not succeed in making the shot a fatal one; the doctors killed the President and not himself, etc.

Bensity of Population.

Bullentin No 269 from the census office contains many interesting facts concerning the density of population in the several states and districts of the country. In the first class into which the territory is divided the residents number from two to six on a square mile; in the second, from 6 to 18; in the third, from 18 to 45; in the fourth, from 45 to 90; in the fifth, more than 90 to the square mile, The extension of the several groups during the last twenty years is shown by the following

A GRAND STEEPLE CHASE.

As if there were not sufficient excitement at the usual horse-race, these meetings on the turf nearly always close with a grand steeple chase. This kind of race combines all the excitement of the regular race, with the super-added element of danger which seems to give further zest to the sport. Horses, and good ones at that often receive severe injuries, which render them practically useless for long periods. At least this was the state of affairs until owners and breeders of fine stock began to freely use St. Jacobs OIL, the Great German Remedy for man and beast. This invaluable article to horsemen has so grown into favor on account of its phenomenal efficacy favor on account of its phenomenal efficacy in diseases of domestic animals, especially the horse, that it would be difficult indeed to discover a horseme, unacquainted with its magical potency. The Philadelphia

Easy Hour, in a recent issue says: "But one of the most important developments concerning St. Jacobs On. is the discovery that it has properties which are beneficial to the animal as well as to the human species. It has, of late, been in active despecies. It has, of late, been in active demand among livery men and others for use on horses suffering from sprains or abrasions. The most prominent instance known of in this connection, is that related by Mr. David Walton, a well-known Friend, who keeps a livery stable at 1245 North Twelfth street. Mr. Walton states that he was boarding a valuable horse belonging to Benjamin McClurg, also a resident of North Twelfth street. A few weeks ago the animal slipped and badly sprained his leg, making him very lame.
